

Chapter 20

Amendment 11: Self-Imposed Limitations

Amendment 11

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States, by citizens of another state, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.

The Eleventh Amendment limits the federal judiciary from involvement in lawsuits in which a state is sued by citizens of another state or foreign entity. Despite its attempt at limiting itself, the federal government's judiciary is nonetheless unbiblical and consequently outside Yahweh's favor. See Chapter 6 "Article 3: Judicial Usurpation" for information regarding the unbiblical nature of the United States Constitutional Republic's juridical system.
